In commemoration of Arizona's Centennial, take a tour of old Phoenix and see some of the buildings, homes, and charming parts of town Arizona's capital city has lost. Treasures like the Fox Theatre, the Fleming Building, and the Ingleside Inn live now only in our memories. Robert Melikian will talk about historic preservation in Phoenix and share photos and stories from his book of buildings and landmarks that have disappeared.

Robert Melikian grew up in Phoenix. His family has owned the Hotel San Carlos since 1973. He and his two brothers own several commercial historic buildings in downtown Tucson. Robert is the author of Arcadia Publishing books Vanishing Phoenix and Hotel San Carlos.
